

Ellie goes extra mile for her art

AN art student has had her work displayed at an Underground station as part of a exhibition.

Ellie Harrison, 25, of Ealing, bought an annual Gold Travelcard in 2002 to travel between her home and the New Cross University campus and decided to record all her journeys.

She calculated the cumulative distance and marked stages of her journeys as if they corresponded to the equivalent distance to world-wide destinations.

These have now been turned into a collection of international postcards called Goldcard Adventures which is being displayed at Piccadilly Circus station as part of the Underground's Platform for Art programme.

She said: "I was just aware of all the time I was wasting sat on the Tube so I thought I would record it. All the journeys are measured from Ealing so it's as if Ealing is the centre of the universe in my project."

Eighteen postcards, including Moscow, Montreal and Mexico, two of which are pictured left, are currently displayed at Piccadilly Circus station until March 21.

● The exhibition continues online at www.ellieharrison.com/goldcard

Mexico City, Mexico
8930 kilometres from Ealing Broadway

Today, after commuting across London for 332 days, I've travelled 8930 kilometres. That's as far as Mexico City!

LOW-RESOLUTION DO NOT PRINT

21 AUG 2003

Goldsmiths College
New Cross
London
SE14

www.ellieharrison.com/goldcard

Shanghai, China
9210 kilometres from Ealing Broadway

Today I completed my Gold Card Adventures. After a whole year commuting across London, I've travelled 9210 kilometres. That's as far as Shanghai!

LOW-RESOLUTION DO NOT PRINT

22 SEP 2003

Goldsmiths College
New Cross
London
SE14

www.ellieharrison.com/goldcard